BRITISH OPINION
DIVIDED OVER U.
S. ENTRY IN WAREnvoy Kennedy Gives
House Committee Views
on Lease-Lend Bill

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy reported to congress today that some high British officials believed the United States should go to war with their nation against Germany but that others disagreed with this view.

Those who favored United States entrance into the war, said the retiring envoy to London, did so because they felt that this nation "would find a way to carry it through". Officials opposed to the idea, he said, believed that it would cut down the flow of war materials to Britain.

Kennedy, who served President Roosevelt in London for 13 months after Britain went to war and went through more than 280 air raids, appeared before the house foreign relations committee to testify on the administration bill for lease-lend aid to Britain and other "democracies".

He agreed with various suggestions put forward by committee members for limiting powers which would be granted to the president by the legislation, approving among others a proposal to keep the president from using warships for convoy duty, unless congress consented.

Questioned at length on conditions in Britain, Kennedy said that when war came and parliament passed a bill in two hours without debate—presumably the emergency powers bill—"democracy went out the window". But, he added, it did not necessarily follow that democracy "can't come back".

At another point that it was "quite unlikely" that England might land troops on the European continent and defeat Germany. He reiterated his expressed view that the United States should keep out of the war.

In Close Coordination
On the problem of aiding the British the ambassador expressed the belief that congress should have a closely coordinated relationship with the president. "If congress could have some small committee that would function with the president, you'd still have congress functioning but it would not be through an unwieldy body", he explained.

At the same time he made it clear that he favored full aid—"short of war"—to the British. He called for "100 per cent" support for whatever methods of extending assistance finally were worked out.

Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass) took up with Kennedy the question of making public reports which the envoy forwarded to Washington while he was in London. Kennedy said the matter involved policy considerations and was for the state department to decide. It might be, he added, that the best interests of the country would not be served by making the documents public.

He said that while he was in London he had "but three telephone conversations" with the administration here "one with the president and two with the Secretary of State".

Subsequently, at the state department newsmen asked Secretary Hull about proposals that diplomatic correspondence of both Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Paris, be submitted to congressional committees.

Hull said some state department documents could not be made public in the interest of national defense and the nation's foreign relations but that he did not know whether any of the documents from Kennedy and Bullitt came within this category.

Several Points Stressed
In the course of the lengthy committee hearing Kennedy stressed several points to the committee. These included:

With regard to British aid, "the problem for us to consider is what's best for us; it doesn't sound very charitable, but that's the question".

If the war continues for two or three years, it is a "fair assumption" that communism will sweep over western Europe.

Aid to Britain which might lead to involvement in war, would include American naval escorts for cargo convoys. When one of the war vessels was sunk, war in Kennedy's opinion would result.

Kennedy "has faith" in the president's ability and integrity in handling foreign affairs.

Kennedy reported there was "no unanimity" in British government circles on the question of American entrance into the war.

Circumvention

Alton, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The city council will consider a proposal to pay Alton police a minimum wage of $175 a month but have each officer return $45 as a permit fee for carrying a gun, thus obeying the state law and also keeping within salary limits the city says it can afford.

Corporation Counsel K. K. Hoagland made the suggestion to the council finance committee and it will be discussed at a full meeting of the council tomorrow night.

Civil service examinations already have been ordered for the city's firemen, also entitled to the same minimum, with the object of cutting the force so the $175 monthly can be paid.

At present the basic pay for the 30 firemen and 30 policemen is $30 a month.

Story of Torture
and Hardships Is Told by 4 Sailors

An Eastern Canadian Port, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Twelve sailors died, some in agony and in madness, some quietly in sleep—but four lived to tell here today of 18 days of torture from thirst and exposure in an open lifeboat adrift in the frigid North Atlantic.

An Italian submarine, which "just popped up alongside us", torpedoed and sank the 5,162-ton British freighter Carlton 500 miles off Ireland Dec. 20, the emaciated survivors related.

The crew of 34 put to sea in two lifeboats. One, with 18 aboard, still is missing. A British merchantman found the other and brought its handful of survivors to a hospital here last night. They had subsisted on meager supplies of water and biscuits.

The four told of a battle between their ship, armed only with a Hotchkiss machine-gun, and the Italian warcraft.

"She couldn't have been more than 12 yards away", Seaman Amos Pearson, 24, a London cab driver before the war, related.

"We turned the gun on her, but bullets bounced off her hull like hailstones. She dove out of sight. A while later, we could see her

Robbery of Two Business Places in Dixon in Night Thought Work of Boys

Two places of business in Dixon were the objectives of youthful thieves at an early hour this morning, one of them, the Fuifs confectionery on North Galena avenue, having been robbed the second time in ten weeks. The Ed Deets service station at Peoria avenue and River street, which has been entered previously in recent weeks was the second place to be entered.

The heaviest loss was at the Fuifs confectionery where two panes of glass were broken in a north window to gain entrance. Cigarettes, stamps and money were taken as the stock was ransacked. The loss was estimated to amount to about $50. A valuable shot gun which was left when the store was entered ten weeks ago, was a part of last night's loot. The robbery was discovered when the store was opened this morning about 6:30 o'clock and was immediately reported to the police who conducted an investigation.

Merchant Police Officer McIntire, on his rounds at 4 o'clock this morning, discovered a broken window in the rear of the Deets service station and upon investigation, discovered that the place had been entered. The owner of the station was summoned and the investigation disclosed the general ransacking of the stock of accessories from which several articles had been taken. The cash register was opened but a few pennies were not removed. Police after investigating both robberies stated that the thefts were probably committed by boys.

TRAGEDY VISITS
FISHING VESSEL
NEAR HOME PORT18 of Crew of 23 Drown
in Boston Harbor Following Collision

Boston, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Eighteen men drowned today, almost within sight of their homes, as the Boston schooner Mary E. O'Hara, homeward bound from a week on the fishing banks, was split open in a collision as it approached Boston Harbor, and sank.

Five half-frozen survivors dragged to safety from the protruding mainmast of the sunken schooner by the crew of the trawler North Star told their rescuers that the O'Hara apparently had struck a barge and that the remainder of the crew of 23 had fallen from the rigging one by one as their hands froze.

Hours later, the barge Winifred Sheridan was found anchored a half-mile distant by Captain Lawrence Dunn, harbor master, who reported she had suffered some damage to her starboard rail and side.

Brought ashore with their own hands and feet frozen, half dead from drenching and exposure, the men said their schooner had sunk so fast there was no time even to launch a dory, and that they had fled into the upper portions of the rigging to cling there for three hours, in the early morning darkness, from 3 a. m. until 6.

The faint cries of the survivors were heard by members of the crew of the North Star as they passed Finn's Ledge, on the outer fringe of Boston harbor, a dozen miles from the city.

Unseemly Help Near
Three times earlier, during those tragic hours, other craft approached the men clinging to the ice-shooted rigging—and the men cried for help—only to see the vessels pass and their lights fade in the gloom.

Captain Lars Lund of the North Star said the five told him that they had been able to attract the attention of one of these other craft, many more of the crew might have been saved.

The survivors said that the O'Hara, laden with its fare of fish and still further born down with a heavy sheathing of ice in the 12-degree temperature, sank within five minutes as the crew—unable to launch the heavily-iced dories—strove desperately to run their vessel aground.

Captain Lund found five feet of the foremast and 12 feet of the mainmast of the O'Hara above the water near Finn's Ledge and guided the bow of his beam trawler so close that he was able to remove four of those clinging to the rigging.

Captain Falls to Death
The fifth, Cecil Crowell of Nova Scotia, was helpless and unable to move from his perch, so a dory was put overside and three members of the North Star's crew rescued him.

The other survivors were Cecil Larkin, 38, Stanley Conrad, 54, Frank Silva, 59, and Gabriel Welch, all of Boston.

Last of those to fall from the rigging into the sea, the rescued men said, was their skipper, Captain Fred Wilson of Boston.

Crowell was affected so seriously that he had to be carried from the North Star in a stretcher into a waiting City Hospital ambulance. But the other four, given first aid and stimulants by the crew of the North Star, had recovered sufficiently to climb up the ladder to the wharf, unassisted.

Many Dismissals
Governor Dwight H. Green announced today that 411 Democratic state job holders either had been dismissed or would be removed from the payroll before the end of this month.

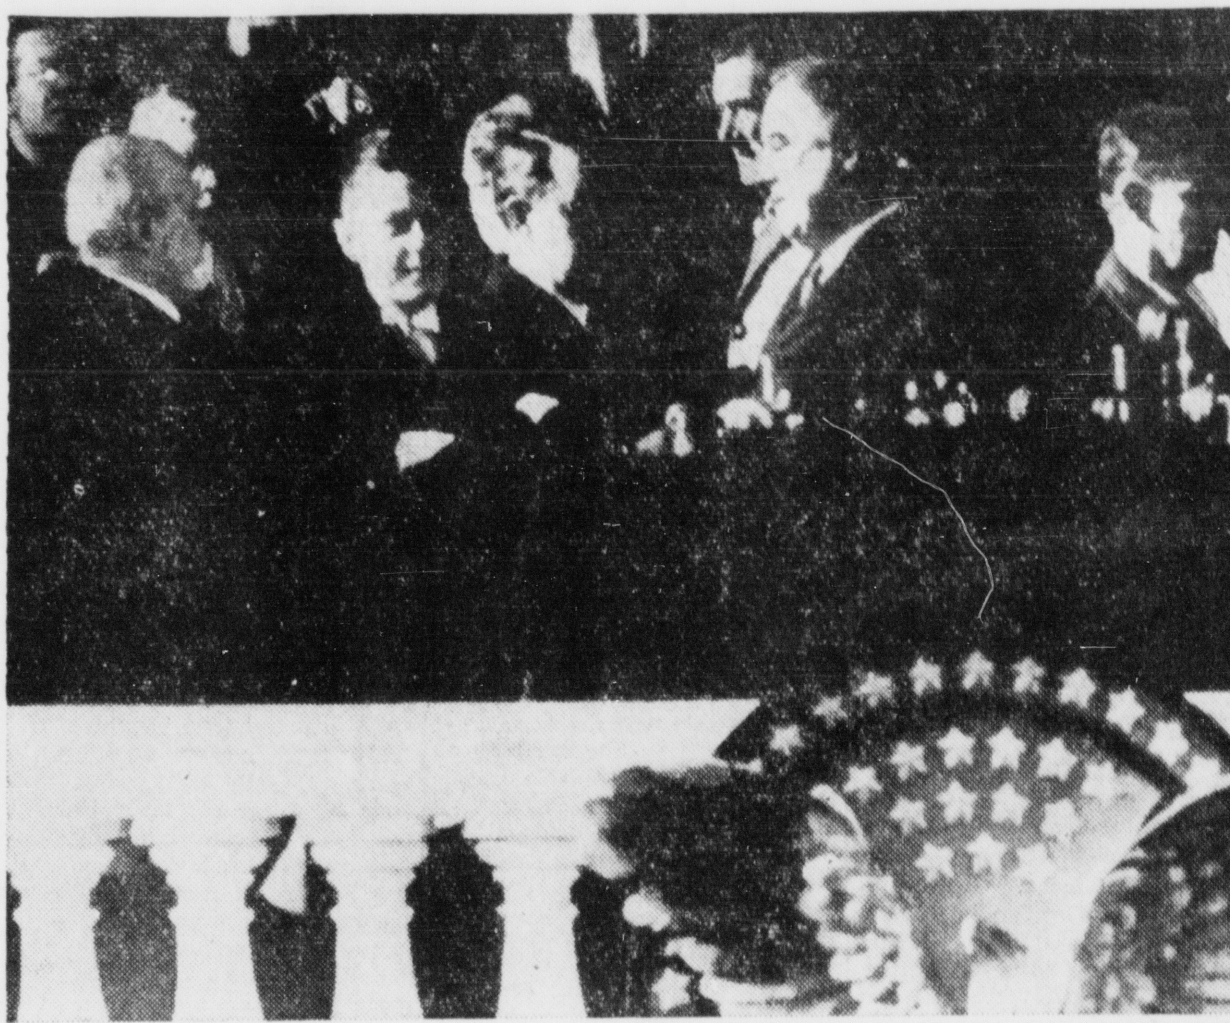

The governor disclosed in a press conference that since he took office eight days ago, more than 300 employees have been dropped and that at least 100 others were soon to be discharged. He said most of the jobs were being abolished.

The governor said that, effective yesterday, 162 positions were eliminated in the department of finance—84 in the Springfield offices and 78 in the Chicago offices. He disclosed that approximately 100 employees in the Department of Conservation had been given their dismissal notices.

He added that 34 would be cut from the Department of Agriculture, eight from the Department of

Barrett Plans to Probe Phases of Democratic Rule

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Attorney General George F. Barrett, contending "there is abundant cause for inquiry into many phases of the state's business in recent years," made plans today to investigate the payrolls and other expenditures of the Stelle and Horner Democratic state administrations.

Barrett, a Republican who took office eight days ago, sent letters to Gov. Dwight H. Green and other G.O.P. officials notifying them of the inquiry and appealing to them for cooperation. He said the investigation would cover "payrolls, contracts and purchases."

"It is already apparent that there is abundant cause for inquiry into many phases of the state's business during recent years and it is highly probable that matters of this character may arise in your department," Barrett said in letters to the eight department directors appointed by Green during the first week of his administration.

"In that event I shall be ready to give you every possible assistance in a legal way, and at the same time I am inviting the cooperation of all department heads in various investigations which I feel my own department must make because of the complaints and evidence already placed in my hands."

Must Study Records
"The indications are that it will be necessary to study the available records of payrolls, contracts and purchases, and further than that, to go behind the written record to uncover the full extent of actual evasion and violation of the law which the public welfare demands shall be punished."

Aides of Barrett said the inquiry would span the eight years of the Democratic regimes of the late Gov. Henry Horner and John Stelle, who held office as chief executive for 99 days following Horner's death last October 6.

Another proposal to investigate the Stelle administration is pending in the Illinois house of representatives. Rep. Joseph Sam Perry, Glenelg Democrat, and factional foe of the former governor, has filed a resolution requesting that the inquiry be conducted by a seven-member committee of the house.

Legislative leaders have predicted there may be no final action on the Perry resolution for several weeks.

Store Manager Promoted
Lola Nelson, manager of the A. & P. super-store on Peoria avenue, has been transferred to management of a large store in Rockford which he will assume within a few days. Mr. Nelson came to Dixon to manage the local super-store upon its opening several months ago and his transfer to Rockford takes him to a much larger store. Roy Kreiger of Michigan City, Ind., arrived Monday to succeed Mr. Nelson in the management of the Dixon store, and will be joined by his wife in the early spring.

Tradition

Fort Custer, Mich., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The artillery tradition requiring an officer and his bride to ride a caisson around the army post was performed in streamlined fashion here when two recently-married lieutenants of the 50th Field artillery battalion arrived at the fort.

A decorated truck-trailer was substituted for the caisson, which no longer is used by the army. The officers, Lieut. Cornelius Murphy and Lieut. Edward Callahan, and their brides were driven about the fort in the trailer, preceded by a motorcycle escort and the battalion drum and bugle corps riding in a truck.

Lieut. Murphy, a native of Troguis, S. D., was married to Miss Phyllis Ann Tirrell of Phillipsburg, N. J., at Phillipsburg Jan. 11. Lieut. Callahan was married to Miss Jean McGinnis of Springfield, Ill., Nov. 16 at Springfield.

Greeks Smash Italians'
Biggest Drive: British
Open Assault on Tobruk

The War Today!

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The war-drums of the Nazi and fascist chieftains are beating out the message, for all and sundry to hear, that the combined axis forces are starting a great offensive to smash British domination of the Mediterranean.

Maybe that's what Messrs Hitler and Mussolini did decide upon at their mysterious conference yesterday. Still, it is given to wonder why they find it advantageous to advertise their strategy in advance, when their deeds would speak louder than words at the appropriate moment. There's meat for reflection in that point.

I think we find the answer in an article by the authoritative fascist writer Virginia Gayda announcing the offensive. Two sentences of that contain a world of information.

"Italy does not consider herself to be in the least in decline", he said, "Neither is she isolated".

Signor Gayda is a grand writer, and he is doing a hard job well, namely, trying to buck up the spirit of a badly shell-shocked nation and at the same time present a defiant and confident attitude to the outside world. Herr Hitler is in process of doing by military means what Signor Gayda is trying to achieve by words.

The Nazi leader is rushing aid to save his partner from disaster rather than with the expectation at this early moment of achieving a great triumph over Britain in the Mediterranean. True, this combined axis activity, which already has started in a modest way, might develop into a major offensive if luck marches with the dictators.

It will be more than passing strange, though, if the Fuehrer is showing his assault on England direct, in order to shift to the Mediterranean theater in the middle of the critical stage of the battle of Britain. It doesn't make horse-sense.

The battle of Britain is the one in which Hitler is going to win or lose the war—and if he doesn't win quickly his hands will be grimy with trouble, because he isn't set for a protracted conflict. He has the bull by the tail there, and he can't let go without a nasty tumble.

Hitler undoubtedly can divert considerable air power to the Mediterranean but he must maintain a heavy force of bombers and combat planes opposite England. He has to do that for both offensive and defensive reasons.

If he doesn't keep smashing at England she will have a chance to recover from the damage already inflicted, and prosper industrially—the last thing he wants to happen. And if he weakens his fighting fleet, the Royal Air Force is likely to file the German bases and industrial areas like a fish.

It strikes me that Herr Hitler calculates to serve his cause in two ways by his latest move. One is the rescue of his partner, and the other is the infliction of damage.

Quadruplets Born to Indiana Woman Monday
Fail to Survive Day

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Swanson was reported in an improved condition today after giving birth to quadruplets, all of whom died within six and a half hours after their delivery by a Caesarian operation.

The 35-year-old mother, previously childless, bore three girls and a boy yesterday.

Mrs. Swanson is only four feet, 11 inches tall and normally weighs 98 pounds. Her husband, Melbert O. Swanson, 32, is a foundry clerk. Quadruplet births are a comparative rarity in medical annals and seldom do all four survive. American Medical Association records showed 179 sets of quadruplets in 120,000,000 births. Chicago medical authorities estimated that not more than a dozen sets survived among 48 born in the United States between 1915 and 1930.

Axis Powers Plan to Get French Help:
Other War News

By The Associated Press

Greece's mountain fighters reported today they had smashed the biggest Italian counter-attack yet attempted in the Tepeleni sector of central Albania; while across the Mediterranean sea, British desert troops launched a major assault on 30,000 Fascists in the fortress of Tobruk, Libya.

The Greeks, after reporting that Italian forces had started an intensive drive in the Tepeleni region, declared the attack had been thrown back, with losses of large numbers of Italians.

In another combat zone, north of Klisura, the Greeks reported they had scored important gains in a blinding snowstorm, capturing an Italian-held mountain height with 100 Fascist prisoners, field guns, machine guns and mortars.

In the turbulent Balkans, bloody street fighting and bombings were reported in Bucharest and other Rumanian cities, following on the assassination of a German staff officer.

Attack "Proceeding"
The attack on Tobruk, 80 miles from the Egyptian border, started this morning and was reported "proceeding satisfactorily."

The Italian high command had previously noted "increased artillery action around Tobruk," and acknowledged that R. A. F. bombers had raked the fortress, causing "material damage."

A British communiqué said R. A. F. bombers "heavily raided" Tobruk, scoring direct hits on military barracks in the beleaguered town and dropping "many bombs" on a Fascist camp of about 200 tents.

The R. A. F. also reported a new raid on the German air base at Catania, Sicily, in which seven Axis planes were "seen to burst into flames" on the ground. Catania has been used by Nazi dive-bombers in repeated slashes at British Mediterranean fleet.

Fresh units of the German army were reported streaming into Rumania and widespread rioting.

Diplomatic dispatches to Sofia, Belgrade and Budapest said that German soldiers, civilians and Communists were listed among the casualties.

Frontiers Closed

Rumania's frontiers with Yugoslavia and Bulgaria were closed, except to a few travelers with diplomatic passports, while Balkan capitals speculated that the widespread disorders may have flared in resentment over German military concentrations in Rumania. Others suggested bitter rivalry between Rumanian iron guard elements as a cause.

Other developments brought a quickening tempo to the international situation:

In London, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin announced a government decision to register Britain's working men and women for drafting into war factories.

Bevin told the House of Commons that the nation's production was steadily increasing, but that it had "now reached a stage when it will be necessary to take industrial registration by age groups."

May Get French Aid

In Rome, foreign observers expressed belief that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, in their secret meeting yesterday, agreed on a plan to get France's cooperation in the war against Britain—by direct action if necessary.

These observers forecast a Nazi attempt to gain bases on the French island of Corsica, off the "knee-cap" of the Italian boot; Tunisia, in French north Africa, and possibly the British island stronghold of Malta, and Dakar, French West Africa.

The objective, it was said, would be to make the Mediterranean too hot for the British fleet, thereby crippling Britain's campaign against the Italians in Libya and cutting off British aid to Greece.

Of Interest to Farmers

Ogle Group Seeks Cooperators for Electrification

At a meeting held by the Ogle County Farm Bureau cooperating with the Illinois Northern Utilities company at Stillman Valley high school last Friday committees were appointed to secure co-operators in a rural electrification project. Territory lying in Scott, White Rock and Lynnville townships recently taken over from the Rockford company by the I. N. U. in a plan proposed by the Farm Bureau to give uniform service throughout the county, will now be developed with rural lines as soon as the committees have secured the signatures of those in the territory who wish the service, according to Tom Richardson, Davis Junction, chairman of the Farm Bureau rural electrification committee.

The committees are: for White Rock Twp., Harold Frericks, Ernest Nofstead, George Terviel, Ernest Ippen, Fred Mammenga; Scott Twp., Arthur Hain, Tom Richardson, Marshall Jolly, Albert Hess; Monroe Twp., Lewis Baumgardner, Leslie McNeal, Elmer Clark; in Lynnville Twp., Clarence Hoffman, C. M. Hall, Irvin Hinrichs and Ben Reints.

The cooperative arrangement between the Farm Bureau and the utilities company provides for extending service to as many farmers in the county as is possible at an average minimum rate for all. More than fifty miles of line have been built in Ogle county under this agreement since the beginning of the project a year ago and as much more is now being planned for.

"Varieties of Small Grains" was the topic for discussion at the third regular meeting of the adult farmers' school here last night.

From an experiment conducted at the DeKalb field, the five high yielding varieties of oats were shown to be: (1) Marion (2) Iowa (3) Silvermine 6-403, not available (4) Albion and (5) Gopher. Of these oat varieties, Marion is the plant breeders' most recent contribution. Over a three-year period it has averaged 10.2 more bushels per acre than any other variety in the test. This new oat is the result of a selection from hybrid between Markton and Rainbow by the United States department of agriculture. It is an early to mid-season oat, white in color and medium-length straw. Its most desirable quality, in addition of course to its high yielding ability, is its resistance to both stem rust and smut.

Seed of this remarkable new oat will probably not be available to farmers in any appreciable quantities until next year.

Results of barley trials at the DeKalb field showed the five high yielding varieties to be: (1) Hrehl, (2) Wisconsin Pedigree 38, (3) Black Barblers, (4) Silver King and (5) Logos.

From the standpoint of both quality of grain and yield, the variety best adapted to Illinois is Wisconsin Pedigree 38, sometimes called Wisconsin Barblers. It is highly resistant to the stripe disease and above average in resistance to smut.

Trebi, a high yielder, is severely objected to by the malster. It has a blue aleurone layer in the kernel which makes it undesirable for pearling. It also lodges badly when weather conditions have been unfavorable for weak-strawed grains.

Two new varieties of spring wheat so promise for northern Illinois conditions. Klein General San Martin and Klein Triumph head the list of the spring wheats with Garnet, Progress and Illinois No. 1 following in the order named. The Klein varieties were introduced into this country from Argentina. Preliminary tests indicate that the quality of Klein General San Martin may not be the best. There Argentine wheats are also susceptible to stem rust. Despite this fact they out-yielded the other varieties in the test by almost 6 bushels to the acre.

Attendance has been on the increase each night at the farmers' school and L. V. Slothower, instructor who is also a member of the high school faculty, hopes that all farmers interested in the study of rural problems will avail themselves of the opportunity of attending the classes.

During 1939, 486,936 persons in 140,017 private automobiles, visited Yellowstone National Park.

MY PROJECT STORY

By Harry Smith

In my second year of agriculture under the supervision of L. V. Slothower, I decided to have a purebred sow and litter for my project.

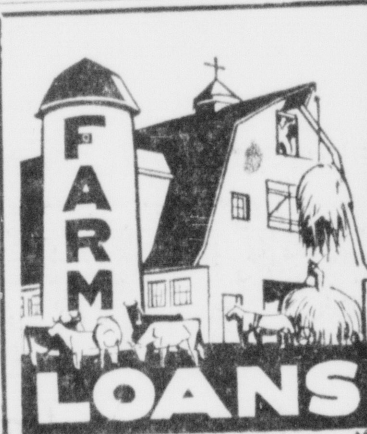

On January 15 I bought the sow from my father for $40. I started her on the self-feeder with ground oats, corn and supplement. In the last part of March she farrowed 10 pigs of which she raised six which were all boars. As soon as the pigs were weaned, I sold the sow back to my father for $27. I fed the pigs the same ration using ear corn. The pigs were castrated and treated for mange. I also had them vaccinated for cholera.

The total cost for raising the sow and litter was $117.59. The pigs averaged 250 pounds when I shipped them and brought $6.35 per hundred weight.

My total income was $121.10 leaving me only $3.51 profit. Adding $4.43 for my labor brought the labor income from my project to $7.94. My income was low because of low hog prices at the time mine were marketed. I intend to raise hogs again next year as market conditions look more promising.

Weekly Commodity Review

CORN

The market has ruled dull but decidedly strong, May closing 1 cent higher and the deferred months 1/4 to 1/2 higher. There has been commission house buying on setbacks, and cash interests sold on the hard spots, due chiefly to the fact that considerable high moisture corn was coming into the cash market. Weather over the belt most unfavorable, causing a falling off in to arrive offerings. The visible decreased 550,000 bushels to a total of 62,051,000 bushels, against 44,473,000 bushels last year. The strength in hogs, which reached a new high, the Government estimate of 11 percent more hogs in the corn belt and 6 percent more lambs and sheep, affected sentiment. Primary arrivals are in fair volume. The amount of corn which has gone into the loan appears to be much smaller than anticipated. The Government attitude on present holdings is still that of being willing to sell on the basis of the loan price, plus charges to date of sale.

SOY BEANS

This market has been exceedingly active this week covering a range of about 3 cents and finishing 1/4 cent lower for the May and 1 cent lower for the July. There has been steady commission house buying on all setbacks, while profit taking and selling by cash interests has appeared on the advances. Primary receipts have been somewhat larger, drawn out by increased premiums, but the visible supply decreased 80,000 bushels to a total of 861,000 bushels, against 3,828,000 bushels a year ago. No 2 yellow beans sold at a new high premium of 4 cents over May. Soybean oil reached a high of 5 1/2 cents a pound. The demand for meal was not quite so urgent. On one trading session, the volume in soybeans constituted 20 percent of the entire recorded business for that day.

LARD

The sharpest advance in hog prices since September 1939, caused broad speculative interest in lard futures, which encountered realizing sales and some hedging pressure on the advance, but closing with gains of 12 1/2 cents from a week ago. Under the stimulus of small movement and bad weather, hogs reached a new high of $9.00 closing on Friday at $8.55. The U. S. cold storage figures for December showing a gain of 54 million pounds, was larger than expected. The market has been experiencing decidedly irregular runs based on the unfavorable weather conditions, but with prospects that the total arrivals are definitely becoming smaller, and the favorable feeding ratio it was believed, would result in helping to keep these figures down. The lard stocks on hand total 256,773,000 pounds on January first, and compares with 162,105,000 pounds January first a year ago. Chicago stocks increased 1,345,000 pounds for the first half of January, slightly larger than trade expectations. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics issued a release looking forward to moderately higher fats and oils prices in 1941, and stressed the increased consumption by reason of the defense program as one of the prime causes.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter has been affected by a generally unsatisfactory demand for both current production and storage reserves. Government intervention and attempts to support prices through the SMA resulted in heavy buying by them of 92 score at 30 cents, and on Friday they offered to take all the butter unsold at that price. November dropped to a new seasonal low of 29.35 on small scattered selling. The SMA were also supporters of the 90 score, bidding 29 1/2 cents in an attempt to hold the market levels. U. S. cold storage stocks, 41,590,000 pounds, compared with 55,462,000 pounds last year, and a five year average of 65,707,000 pounds. Government holdings, 81,000 pounds compare with 14,875,000 pounds a year ago. Production for the week was up 5.3 percent, and up 12.7 percent compared with last year. The larger country production affected sentiment although the opinion prevailed that lowered retail prices and colder weather should stimulate consumption. The market weakness is due to the slow consumptive demand for new arrivals and continued poor inquiry for reserves.

Eggs made new seasonal lows this week with January leading, and during Friday's trading selling off at a net loss of 60 points to close 15 points lower than a week ago. February was relatively firmer, but also weakened sympathetically, closing 50 points higher than a week ago, while October finished unchanged. The weakness was largely on selling credited to eastern account, and came in the face of a forecast for below normal temperatures in the central states area. Collections are up 47.37 percent for the week and 48.94 percent from last year. An unsettling factor, was talk of Government stabilization of eggs, with a trade meeting in Washington on Tuesday without results. U. S. cold storage stocks January first, shell and frozen, 2,697,000 cases compared with 2,597,000 cases a year ago and a five year average of 2,746,000 cases.

According to the most recent reports, the federal communications commission has 624 radio broadcasting stations and 32 non-commercial stations in the U. S.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

Practically all news originates in Washington these days—and that includes news about the poultry and egg business.

The government, through its different departments, is the biggest buyer of poultry and eggs.

This last year the Surplus Marketing Administration bought 2,337,000 cases of eggs—12 1/2 million dollars worth. They are being used now in the school lunches which the government is providing for under-fed children.

This spring they will begin buying eggs again.

Groups of producers, through their representatives, have asked that the SMA support the egg market "at as near the present or parity level of values as possible."

How many eggs they'll have to buy to do this remains to be seen. The army and navy are spending $700,000 a day for food and a lot of it is being spent for poultry and eggs. One camp down in Florida, for instance, bought 240,000 pounds of poultry this last week.

Will Use Dried Eggs

One of the produce men who met with representatives of the National Defense Commission last week tells me that Colonel Logan of the Quartermaster's Department says one of the biggest problems in feeding an army is getting eggs.

It is especially difficult when the army is on maneuvers because it's impractical to carry truckloads of eggs along and there is no assurance that they can be bought in the locality of the operations.

So the army will use only dried eggs when they are on maneuvers.

When eggs are dried, they are broken and all the moisture—which is two-thirds of the egg when it's in the shell—is taken out, leaving a fine yellow powder. In that way, the actual food in a case of eggs can be packed into a tin no larger than a coffee can. Dried eggs don't need to be refrigerated and, because of the space that is saved, the problem of transportation is much simpler.

When the cook is ready to use them, he simply adds the amount of water that was taken out and scrambles them or uses them in baking.

The army is also interested in the possibility of using poultry that is ready to cook. Evidently their entire food supply will be streamlined as much as possible.

I don't know whether they are using dried potatoes yet, but I would be surprised, because they would have the same advantages as dried eggs.

There's one thing certain: K. P. duty won't be what it was during the last war!

Sincerely yours,

Frank Pribe

Illinois Shows Increase In Feeder Cattle For Fourth Straight Year

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—With 8 per cent more cattle on feed in Illinois on January 1, 1941 than a year earlier, Illinois showed an increased number of feeder cattle for the fourth consecutive year, the state and Federal departments of agriculture report.

Last year the departments reported a 10 per cent increase in number of cattle on feed in Illinois. Lightweight cattle, particularly feeder calves, accounted for the larger number on feed this year than last.

A smaller percentage of the cattle on feed will be marketed in the first four months of this year than last. Reported intentions indicate that about 45 per cent compared with 47 per cent a year ago will be marketed during the first four months of the current year, and that 55 per cent compared with 53 per cent a year ago will be marketed after April.

Reduced feed supplies in the drought areas of central and southern Illinois, together with the added expense of hauling stock water, will advance marketing somewhat in those areas, the departments reported.

PRODUCTS MADE FROM SOYBEANS RISE IN VALUE

The value of soy bean industrial products in the nation increased to $43,946,647 in 1939 from $24,312,433 in 1937, the Illinois Manufacturers' association reported yesterday.

"The soy bean industry was one of the few to show a large gain in that period," the association said. "The number of wage earners increased to 1,481 from $71 in 1937, and salaried personnel in the industry increased 69.8 per cent."

"Illinois produces about half of the total crop of soy beans in the United States. In 1940, Illinois produced 55,140,000 bushels of the beans from 2,008,000 acres."

Used for Many Purposes

"The soy bean crop is being used in Illinois for everything from hay to hairpins."

Crediting the University of Illinois with helping to develop the industry in the state, the association listed numerous products made from the bean.

"Among 32 food products derived from soy beans is a flour used in bread, sausages, cocoa, chocolate bars, infant foods, and diabetic foods," the association's report said.

Industrial Uses Listed

"Industrial products from soy beans include constituents of varnish, linoleum, printers ink, celluloid, glue, soap, etc. and insecticides, and plastics.

"A practical problem on which the University of Illinois laboratory has been working is the extension of the uses of soy bean oil as a semidrying oil. The laboratory has developed varnishes of excellent durability which contain no other oil but soy bean oil."—Chicago Tribune.

Cheep Production in State Reaches New Low

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—The number of sheep and lambs being fattened for market in Illinois reached a five-year low of 206,000 head on Jan. 1, A. J. Surratt, state and Federal agricultural statistician, reports.

The statistician's survey disclosed that the number was about 3 per cent under the 280,000 sheep and lambs on Illinois farms a year ago. Reduced pasture feed resulting from drought and muddy feed lots were reported responsible for the decrease.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:
"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause
those whom they actually to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second on the other. Real patriotism who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and opposed, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Local Civil Protection Part of Defense

The dramatic side of the defense program is the race against time in the airplane factories, the shipyards, the training camps.

But there is another side which we dare not neglect. It is not dramatic; it is not fashionable to mention it; it opens one to the charge of hysteria. Nevertheless—

An important part of the all-out defense on which we now depend to keep war away from the United States is civilian protection and local precautions against aerial bombardment, sabotage of water works, bridges, tunnels, power stations, airports, railroad yards, and other nerve centers of urban life.

The American Society of Civil Engineers has had a committee working on these things since last October. It works with the War Department's Technological Civil Protection Committee and with other societies and agencies to make plans for civilian defense. If there should be a sudden war, it is too late to improvise such plans, and the events in Europe are convincing proof that civilian defense is a most important factor.

This does not mean that we must immediately
begin building dugouts and practicing blackouts.
There is nothing about the study of these things that suggests hysteria or war-mongering. We have been taught, bitterly, in the past two years, that war can happen to any country, and we to him
who is not ready.

These civilian defense plans are and must be local, for every community presents its own special problem. The War Department and the various engineering organizations are urging that local, city,
and state committees begin immediate study of questions like this:

Whether deep or shallow air-raid shelters best fit the local picture, and where they could be built in emergencies.

Whether adequate supplies of piling and other

timber are available for quick repair to docks and wharves in case of bombing or sabotage.

What could be done to supply emergency electric current if the regular source were interrupted.

What emergency sources of water supply could be called on in emergency.

What bridges and public works would require protection, and how to protect them. (New York has already closed all openings and covered all anchorages of bridges, increased patrols, and supplied floodlights.)

What could be done to evacuate civilians quickly
and without interrupting military movements.

What special defense problems would occur in each community in case of war, in addition to those problems that would be common to all.

Since the country has decided almost unanimously on defense as the best insurance against possible war, it is no longer sensible to ignore this phase of defense, which events in Europe have shown to be scarcely less important than purely military activity.

Have We Forgotten Finland?

It is not so long ago—just a year, in fact—that the world was applauding Finland's courageous stand against Russian invasion. Here was the little country, unoffending, making a brave stand against unprovoked aggression. Here was the only country that paid its war debts to Uncle Sam. Here were free men and women. Cheers!

But now the Finnish-Russian war is all over,
and the Finns fight only against hunger, and cold and disease. They are only rebuilding now, not fighting. That is not dramatic. Courage is soon forgotten.

The Finns want land, and margarine and wheat,
oil cake and cotton, all surplus commodities in the United States. They have a port, Petsamo; they have British navicerts for transport. But they have little money.

If we are in earnest about wanting to help those who fight totalitarianism, one good place to begin would be to help the Finns.

It's a Two-Way Route

There is every reason to take satisfaction in the fact that American-built bombers are now flying regularly on delivery from Newfoundland to Britain in time that breaks the world's record for transatlantic crossing.

Every reason for satisfaction but one—

What flies east can fly west.

The fact that American bombers now fly from North America to Europe between breakfast and tea-time means that European bombers can also fly to North America between breakfast and tea-time.

Which means that there must be more than
tea waiting for them if any should decide to try it.

The dictators will fume and fulminate, but they will not risk declaring war on us unless they have conquered Great Britain.—William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France.

The only birthday I wish I have is that before another birthday rolls around, we shall have peace
in the world.—Carrie Chapman Catt on her 82nd birthday.

We open our doors indiscriminately to certified
and uncertified visitors alike.—Fannie Hurst, novelist, on titled terms.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Washington, Jan. 20.—This government is firmly stepping out
now upon an economic roller coast-er and knows it. Roosevelt glanced briefly at dizzy ascents,
screaming curves, and chutes in his messages laying out the $28,- 000,000,000 program.

The violence this is likely to do to our economic ways is clear
when you consider the $49,000,000,000
debt is now viewed in many quarters. The defense expenditures
now contemplated may shoot it up 50 per cent. With the shortages of materials and labor already creating a price inflation
problem—and the peak of the program a year off—the prospects are obvious. Alf Landon has said the program is putting the capitalistic system through the ringer, and he wonders if the republic will go through the rock crusher at all. The possibility of socialism as the outgrowth in England is well advertised.

But I have an idea the obvious
never happens in these matters.
The soup never tastes exactly as
the cook book orders it.

As I see the New Deal administration beginning to move now toward more controls, it seems to me what we are going to get on the ascent is control, control, control. Prices, credits, production, distribution, money—every cor-
puscle of the economic lifeblood
—is apt to feel increasingly the hand of the centralized state.

As bigger doses of the same thing are already being talked to ward off the post war descent,
it seems to me you are apt to wind up in this thing—not necessarily with inflation, deflation
and the other natural consequences—but more probably with a distinctly new kind of democratic state, a form of economic democratic absolutism creeping
up by the necessity of warding
off consequences.

To start with, the government
men, (mind you, business does not yet concede these things will be necessary), are talking about aluminum. They see the time coming when housewives will have to get along with less and pay much more for what they can get. This will be the first instance in which the general public may notice that we are getting off the ground.

Next is likely to be autos. By July the defense experts suspect
some steps will be necessary to curtail private car production.
They would not be surprised if the cuts amount to a third by December.

These limitations will undoubtedly have to be extended as the program develops to most of the other necessities and luxuries of everyday living. But the administration is likely to hold back and apply controls piecemeal in order to avoid any more dislocation
than necessary.

To keep inflation from floating off with the ascending spiral,
five or more steps are being considered by Defense Commission economists. One primary problem is to prevent the greater circulation of money from causing a bidding up of prices for materials which are only limitedly available, a situation which will cause a depreciation of the value
of money.

First remedy all the New Dealers favor is taxes. They look on higher taxes not particularly
as a means of paying the defense
program but as an economic suction pump to draw money away
from consumers which might otherwise be spent for consumer
goods and thus clog the defense
program. (Impartial Brookings Institute has recommended draining one fourth of the national income to pay-as-you-go for defense.)

A campaign will undoubtedly be started to promote cash payments for all goods and less installment buying.

A system of forced savings is likely to be set up. A certain amount of a worker's earnings
might be required for investment in government bonds. A new kind of Liberty bond campaign will be started. (Morgenthau has already promised this much) to sell baby bonds and thrift stamps.
But the main over-all control will be priorities. This means the government will tell each factory
how much consumer goods it can produce, how much defense
goods, and either directly or indirectly what can be charged for it.

This will be accompanied by controls over money and banking along lines suggested in the Eccles plan. But all these and the other controls that have been mentioned are not likely to be sufficient. They are merely mild brakes which can be arranged in advance. The full force of cen-

AARON RHOADS

Raymond K. Rhoads, $11 Galena avenue this morning received a telegram announcing the sudden death of his father, Aaron Rhoads, aged 87, who passed away at an early hour this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roy Rhoads at Lancaster, Pa. Mr.
Rhoads made his home with his son in Dixon for eight years and about three months ago went to Lancaster to reside with his daughter. The funeral service and interment will take place
Thursday at Lancaster.

Strained restraints will have to be determined as situations arise.
Arbitrary price fixing, for example, might be required.

The assurance is plain that we are in all this entering upon an era of expanding democratic absolutism, single-headed direction
to all life by government, not through choice but by necessity.
Strangely enough exactly the same line of strategy will be required in the descent after the war defense era. These will be considered in this column tomorrow.

Members of Dixon Forum Hear from Dr. Albert Lybyer

(Contributed)

Under the auspices of the Dixon
Forum, Dr. Albert Lybyer of the University of Illinois lectured to a large audience at the Loveland Community House last night on the subject "The Trend of World Events". This was the third of a series of five lectures to be given by the Forum.

Clyde E. Buckingham, founder of the local organization stated that the purpose of the series was
to bring to Dixon a number of outstanding speakers, each of whom was free to present his own convictions. "The point of view of any speaker," said Mr. Buckingham, "is not necessarily that of the Forum, as the purpose of the series is to stimulate thought by presenting different speakers".

John W. Mills, the presiding
chairman, stated that the purpose of the Forum is to exercise the right of free speech and free thought upon some of the great issues affecting our community
and national life. "It is to be hoped,"
he said, "that some future speaker
of the series may present the case for a different point of view
as ably as Dr. Lybyer has presented his own convictions".

Dr. Lybyer traced the trend of world events from 1914 to 1940.
He stated that there was a difference of opinion as to how the World War came about, but that it was agreed that one factor was extreme nationalism which divided
the world into 50 or 60 parts, each counting itself independent of all others. "My text," he said,
"might be the sentence, 'Live, let live, and help live'. Nationalism stops with the first word, 'live'.
Americans usually stop with the second word, 'let live' but the trend of the future is toward the third word, 'help live'."

He reminded the audience of the fourteen points which Woodrow Wilson set forth as a basis of a just peace. Dr. Lybyer stated that when he was at the Versailles
conference, he had written home
that Wilson's 14 points had been whittled down to such small points
as to be practically invisible. He then made what he called a "pi-
u-perfect prophecy" by stating that had the United States joined the League of Nations to help maintain world peace, the present war
might never have come about.

Quotations from Wells

Much of the lecture was spent in quoting from the recent supplement to H. G. Wells' Outline of History, presenting the British point of view regarding the present conflict. The speaker, who is a member of the committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, made it clear that it was his conviction that the only way
in which the United States could preserve Democracy was by giving every assistance to Great Britain, and if necessary by sending an expeditionary force to invade Germany.

He stated that Senator Wheeler's estimate, that present policies
would lead to the plowing under
of every fourth American boy in foreign soil, was excessive as even in Great Britain and France in the last war the number of young men killed did not total 25 percent of the population.

Dr. Lybyer stated that if we went into the war this time, as he believed we should, we should also recognize the fact that we must help police the world following the war, and preserve order by maintaining world domination by the British speaking, peace loving people. The ultimate outcome, he believed, must be some international commission which would have control of the air forces and landing fields of all nations of the world, including our own, and which could exercise in addition some measure of economic control
throughout the world.

Questions, Answers

In the question and answer period following the lecture, Dr. Lybyer was asked what new element
entered into the present war which would make an allied victory any greater guarantee for world peace than was the one in 1918. He replied that the makers of the Treaty of Versailles were too narrow and harsh, and that he believed the rulers of England from 1918 to 1939 were very ignorant,
but that the present crisis was so much greater than the first World War, that it would force national leaders to be more intelligent.

Another question from the audience was in what way can Germany be decisively defeated? The reply was that first, Britain and the United States must win control of the air, then an expeditionary force must be landed on the continent of Europe, regain the territory conquered by Hitler
last year, and invade Germany.

A third question asked for the speaker's opinion of the Lend-Lease Bill. He replied that since Great Britain was fighting our battle, we should not limit our aid to that which could be paid for in cash. Our experience in the last war shows that money can not be repaid. "Therefore, it is right,"
he said, "to give them all they need and when a victory is won,
we will not care to have the war
materials returned to us, as there will no longer be use for them".
In his opinion, the bill was one to make this aid available to Great

Little Chance of Securing Flying School in Dixon

The possibility of securing a portion of a federal appropriation for the organization of a second ground course school in aviation in Dixon next month, appeared very remote according to information received from the Civil Aeronautics Authority today. While members of the directorate of the Dixon
Municipal airport and others
who were approached on the proposition, agreed unanimously that the organization of the class not only increased activity at the airport as well as providing valuable instruction to a group of young men interested in aviation, the project was said to have lacked an active sponsor. The second class was to have started early in February.

Last July a group of about 70
young men from this section enrolled in the first class, which was organized by L. E. Sharpe of the high school faculty and which was instructed by him and Dr. Grover Moss at both the high school and airport. The ten successful graduates of this class are now completing their course in flying at the airport under the direction of Manager Reinhart Schnell.

In a long distance telephone conversation, the Civil Aeronautics Authority representative at Chicago has advised Superintendent A.
H. Lancaster of the Dixon schools that the application was received too late to be included in the appropriation for a course to start next month. At present there is some speculation relative to filing
an application for another course
which is to start in July.

CONCERNING PIGEONS

Editor Telegraph:
Referring to the article in the Evening Telegraph and the Reminder to the shooting of the pigeons, I commend the Mayor for his stand. To any one owning property in the immediate vicinity of the roosting places of the pigeons it was a welcome stand.
The author of the article apparently, only sees the pigeons when down town, as the most popular roosting places are among the church steeples and roofs in the vicinity. The fouling of eisters
from their droppings and noises
at night would change his opinion were he a resident of the neighborhood.

Gorski-Penrose Bridal Is Read, This Morning

Her twentieth birthday anniversary became the wedding day of Miss Mary Irene Penrose, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Penrose of 506 Third street, when she exchanged marriage vows with Paul F. Gorski, second son of the Walter Gorskis of Merrill, Wis., in a nuptial high mass this morning at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. The Rev. Father T. L. Walsh celebrated the mass at 8 o'clock, in the presence of about 150 guests from Lanark, Ohio, Chicago, Dixon, DeKalb, Sterling, and Merrill, Wis.

Members of St. Mary's choir sang, Dale Doran of Ohio, the offertory soloist, sang Rosewig's "Ave Maria." The bride walked with her father who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown of white brocade satin was designed with short puffed sleeves, and her shoulder-length veil was held in place by pearl-tipped orange blossoms. White lace gloves and white satin sandals completed her attire. White roses and sweetpeas formed her shower bouquet, and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from her bridegroom.

Miss Anna Marie Blackburn of Lanark was her cousin's maid of honor. She was wearing pink satin, with a short veil to match. Miss Virginia Gorski, a sister of the bridegroom, and another cousin of the bride, Miss Mary Jane Hannan of Sterling, as bridesmaids, were gowning in blue satin with pink turbans. Their hand bouquets contained pink sweetpeas and carnations.

The little flower girl was the bride's five-year-old cousin, Joan Doran, daughter of the Dale Dorans. She wore a matching pink bonnet with her ruffled floor-length frock of aqua satin, and carried rose petals in a white basket.

Stanley Gorski came from Merrill to attend his brother as best man.

Mrs. Penrose selected a black costume for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Gorski, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in blue. Roses and sweetpeas formed their shoulder corsages.

A four-tiered cake, decorated in pink and topped with a tiny bride and groom, was the centerpiece on the table for a wedding breakfast served at the Knights of Columbus home. The Misses Lois Marie Muzzey, Donna Welch and Betty Thompson assisted with the serving. Forty relatives and friends were present.

Later, Mr. Gorski and his bride left on a ten-day motor trip to Kentucky, and will visit the bridegroom's home at Merrill, before returning to Dixon to reside. They will be at home at 910 College avenue.

This morning's bride was graduated from Dixon high school in 1938, and was employed at the Nixon Beauty Salon until recently. Mr. Gorski, a graduate of Merrill high school, is with the Austin contracting company.

Miss Mary Jane Lambert was hostess at a personal shower for Miss Penrose on Thursday evening. The following evening the bride was complimented at a neighborhood party at her parents' home.

Mrs. Frank Nangle had charge of the program for the event. Mrs. Nangle gave a very interesting discussion on music of various types and also gave illustrations of the musical history. The large audience thoroughly enjoyed the program.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the Nangle home. This meeting will be on Friday, February 21. All members are urged to attend. The meeting will be under the supervision of the department of American homes.

I. O. O. F. Entertain

The members of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Paw Paw, entertained the members of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of District Number 22 at the local hall on Thursday evening. Due to the very bad driving conditions the meeting was not as well attended as expected, however considering the weather, a very good number were present for the occasion.

The Rev. James H. Hagerty of the Paw Paw Methodist church gave a very fine talk which was a commemorative address of the birthday of Thomas Wilsey, father and founder of the Odd Fellows Lodge of America.

Other highlights of the fine program included several numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nangle. Mrs. Dee McLaughlin gave a most interesting article on Odd Fellowship. Will Shaddick read a poem appropriate for the occasion, and Miss Lois Tarr played several accordion numbers. The program was most interesting and well received by the audience.

After the program a very delicious lunch was served to those present.

Anniversary Event

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Jones were given a surprise anniversary party on Sunday. A very delicious anniversary dinner was served and the guests of honor were presented with a wool blanket by the group. The anniversary was the ninth for Mr. and Mrs. Jones. The afternoon was spent in a social way and the day was a most pleasant occasion.

Those present for the anniversary party were: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Knox and family, Mrs. Robert Briggs, Mrs. Carlos Ambler and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rogers, all of Mendota; Mr. and Mrs. Ethel Simpson and family of Troy Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith of Cortland, Miss Louise Smith and Harry Rollins, also of Cortland.

Paw Paw was behind only two points at the halftime, 16 to 14, but cracked wide open in the final period. At the end of the third quarter the locals were losing five points.

The Paw Paw seconds won their fifth straight game, beating Shabbona 28 to 24. The Paw Paw grades lost a poorly played game, 14 to 2.

Willing Workers

The Willing Workers class of the Baptist church held their annual business meeting at the church on Wednesday afternoon. The good number present enjoyed a fine 1 o'clock dinner. Mrs. Charles Wright and Mrs. William Gaines were the hostesses for the occasion. The following were elected officers for the class this year: Mrs. Herman Meyer, president; Mrs. John Mortimer, vice president; Mrs. Henry Faber, secretary; and Mrs. Lester Erlenbach, treasurer.

Snowmobile

The snowmobile owned by Orville and Wellington Englehart, has created a lot of interest in Paw Paw. The snowmobile is propelled by a motor cycle motor and is mounted on steel runners, with the propeller furnishing the power. The snowmobile can attain a very high rate of speed but due to the hazards of country roads the boys can not really open the throttle.

Be Sure to Try This New Chocolate Nougat Pie!

"You'll love this mouth-melting 'candy pie,'" says lecturer at The Telegraph's Cooking School

"It's a honey," she declares. And that's literally true. For the meringue is sweetened with honey and decorated with almonds. Underneath the nougat-meringue is a smooth, rich chocolate filling that fairly melts in your mouth. If your family is fond of chocolate pie, just wait till they taste this one!

The pie shell is meltingly tender and flaky—the kind of pastry you've longed to make. And you can make it easily now by the simple Spry recipe given here. Purer all-vegetable Spry is so creamy-smooth it blends with your flour like magic.

Mrs. Emily Lautz, food expert, is demonstrating this easy Spry way to crowds of interested women at the Telegraph's Cooking School now being held at the Dixon theater. Come to these helpful meetings and learn to make new dishes you'll enjoy for years.

and salt and mix thoroughly. Pour on chocolate mixture gradually, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until smooth and thick, then cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally.

Stir a small amount of mixture into beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook a few minutes longer. Add butter and vanilla. Beat egg whites until they hold a stiff peak. Add honey gradually, beating constantly. Pile lightly on filling in baked pie shell.

Three States Will Fight Ickes Hold Over Power Sales

A move is under way in Pacific northwest states to clip the wings of Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes in his present one-man, remote control of the affairs of Bonneville dam, and to halt a move to similarly boss Grand Coulee, according to dispatches from Portland, Ore.

The Pacific northwest regional planning commission, consisting of representatives from Washington, Oregon, and Idaho, has adopted a resolution asking the national administration and congress to reject Ickes' plan to set up a bureau of which he would be the head as secretary of the interior, as proposed in a bill offered at the last session. Instead the commission asked for the creation of a commission having regional independence, and having prominent regional citizens as directors with power to act.

If this plan is followed by congress the members of the planning commission say that Secretary Ickes will have to surrender his autocratic powers now exercised under the amended original Bonneville power act.

Southern Tourney

Getting Big Play

Among the countless tournaments throughout the country which are gaining favor with exceptional rapidity is the Southern Handicap Bowling Tournament, scheduled to open January 30 at the Knoxville Bowling Center, Knoxville, Tenn.

This year's event will be the eighth annual and indications now point to a record-breaking participation with the possibility that the officials of the event may find it necessary to extend the tournament dates a week in order to accommodate the heavy out-of-town entry.

Those cities participating are the members of the Southern Bowling Congress and each year the tourney is staged in a different member city. The Congress is divided into eastern and western sections. Birmingham, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Erwin, Tenn. and Gadsden, Ala. comprise the eastern half. In the western group are Little Rock, Memphis, Meridian, Miss., Nashville, New Orleans, Shreveport, Old Hickory, Tenn. and Jackson, Miss.

Last year's champions, the Glass Hats of Shreveport will be entered this season under the name of their new sponsor, Stein's Greatest Clothiers. Other entries have been received from Asheville, N. C. and Johnson City, Tenn., non-members of the Congress.

The leadoff man of the Stockman team of Tacoma's Merchants League is really the leadoff man. Art Bloom is first then come Ray Lee, Bill Overy, Fred Melhoff and Bill Gaskell. The first letters of their last names spell their leadoff man's last name—if you leave off Gaskell.

A chap up in Delano, Minn., bowls every week from a wheel chair and has a mighty good average, too. Real bowling spirit.

Draft of Labor in Nation's Defense Britain's Decision

London, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin informed the House of Commons today that the government has decided to register Britain's working men and women for drafting into war factories.

Bevin reported steadily increasing production, despite air raids, but added that the country had "now reached a stage when it will be necessary to take industrial registration by age groups".

He said the registration was to "make a list of those who should be called upon to serve the state in the national industry".

The government risked a political storm from the left wing by its decision to draft labor, but observers predicted there would be little formal opposition.

Bevin's announcement launched a full-dress debate on manpower. Conservative Earl Winterton immediately applauded the decision.

Laborite Emanuel Shinwell complained that drafting of labor should not be ordered until the government had drafted "wealth, property and land in the national effort".

The power to draft men and women from other occupations or from unemployment into war industries was granted by Parliament in the drastic emergency powers act of May 22.

Capital Unmentioned The act also gave the government the power to draft capital, but Bevin made no mention of this in his announcement to parliament.

In the coming months, the labor minister said, there "will be heavy demands for manpower and womanpower for services, for munitions work and for civil defense".

He said he expected arrangements soon for lowering the draft age for the army from 20 years to 19 and for raising it above the present top limit of 36. He gave no new upper figure.

Employers no longer will be allowed to discharge men except for misconduct in vital industries, Bevin announced, and employees will be forbidden to leave vital work without the government's permission.

The object of such a rule and for the drafting of labor, he said, is to create a "permanent mobile labor force".

To Call Many Women

Besides men, Bevin said, the nation will have to call into munitions and aircraft factories "many women who, in normal circumstances, would not take employment".

"As more men are called up for the forces," he said, "industry will have to absorb women far more than it is doing."

"The state will have to take much greater responsibility for the care of children where women are rendering national service."

Bevin gave point by point a recital of increased British production in the past few months, despite German attempts to bomb factories, furnaces and aircraft plants out of existence. He reported:

1. An increase by more than one-third of merchant shipping construction in the last half of 1940 over the first half;
2. An increased production of

General Motors Plans Expansion to Help Defense

Detroit, Jan. 21.—(AP)—General Motors Corp., the world's largest automotive firm, today announced completion of plans for a monthly output of 1,500 aviation engines and parts and subassemblies for 200 huge bombing planes.

In making the announcement, C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, said the corporation, one of the "big three" in the motorcar industry, had entered into a cooperative arrangement with North American Aviation, Inc., for the production of twin-engine B-25 medium bombers.

Wilson, from the hospital where he was being treated for a skating accident injury, said that manufacture of parts and sub-assemblies would begin immediately so that final assemblies by North American Aviation at a plant to be built in Kansas City "can start by late summer".

He added that, at the peak of the program, the corporation will have 10,000 men employed in the manufacture of airplane parts alone.

Others Have Contracts

At present, the Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. have cooperative agreements with aviation firms for the production of thousands of huge bombing planes to cost millions of dollars.

Wilson said construction of a $24,313,150 plant for the production of 3,000 Pratt & Whitney aircraft engines at a cost of $36,497,520 and at the rate of 500 a month would soon be undertaken by the Buick motor division. Location of the plant has not yet been announced.

This project alone, he said, would require 10,000 employees. It is in addition to the manufacture of the same type of engines and of bomber parts and subassemblies now underway at the Allison division in Indianapolis.

Wilson said that the present production rate of 350 engines a month at the Allison division would be stepped up to a 1,000-a-month output by late fall. By that time, he said, employment would be increased to 15,000 men at Indianapolis, at the Cadillac plant here, and at Anderson, Ind., where an aluminum foundry has just been completed.

Washington Turns To Fulfillment of Roosevelt Pledge

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—From the excitement, the solemnity and the martial sweep of the inauguration, Washington resolutely turned today to the pressing problem of fulfilling President Roosevelt's third-term pledge—"to protect and perpetuate the integrity of democracy".

Even before the gala inaugural trappings were removed from the Capitol, the White House and Pennsylvania avenue, congressmen resumed their vehement debate over the administration's aid-to-Britain bill and its proposed emergency powers for the Chief Executive.

For a day the argument had been stilled by the mighty yet simple spectacle that took place in the winter sunlight on Capitol Hill as Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace took oaths of office as the chosen leaders of 130,000,000 Americans.

A chilled, windswept audience—Democrats and Republicans alike—burst into cheers when the President confidently asserted that "democracy is not dying". And the cheers found echoes an hour later in the rolling acclaim for the count.

Jurors Unable to Agree on Gilt of Six 'I Am' Leaders

Los Angeles, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Six leaders of the "I Am" movement—on whose guilt or innocence of mail fraud charges a federal court jury reported inability to agree—awaited today the U. S. Attorney General's decision regarding a retrial.

The jury, weary after nearly four days of deliberations, yesterday acquitted three defendants but was unable to reach a verdict as to the others.

The case was returned to the senior judge for resetting February 3. Meanwhile U. S. Attorney William Fleet Palmer said he would submit the question of a new trial to his superior in Washington.

Mrs. Edna Ballard, present "I Am" leader, clad in white and wearing a large orchid, said in a statement: "There always has been crucifixion of those who have carried the light".

Majority Vote Guilt

She is the widow of Guy W. Ballard, the movement's founder. Foreman LeRoy Henderson said the jurors had voted 10 to 2 to convict her, and 9 to 3 for conviction of their son, Donald.

"Because unfortunate individuals do not understand the greater action of the laws of life which the ascended masters wield," Mrs. Ballard's statement continued, "does not make the truth told in 'Unveiled Mysteries' and 'The Magic Presence' untrue".

The sale of these and other books by the late Guy W. Ballard was part of the alleged fraud which the government charged to the "I Am" leaders. The movement now claims 3,000,000 followers.

Those acquitted were Charles Sindelar, portrait painter, his wife, Pearl, and Frank von Der Hoya.

The remaining defendants, besides the Ballards, and the announced vote for their conviction: William J. Cassiere, former Louisiana publisher, and Paul Stickell, Chicago lawyer, both 8 to 4; Louise Majerus, 7-5, and Betty Mundy, Mrs. Ballard's secretary, 6-6.

Fanfare

By DON DANIELSON

CUE STAR TO APPEAR HERE

Jimmi Moore, Michigan state billiards champion, will appear here in a special exhibition at the John Vail's billiard parlors at 7 o'clock Friday night. At 17 Moore was the professional tournament he emerged the victor and winner of the Michigan state championship at pocket billiards. In a challenge match in defense of that title, Moore found himself close to 200 balls behind on the third and final set against Joseph McCann, but by a "Garrison" finish he retained his title. Moore's style is reminiscent of the incomparable Greenleaf. His best run is 236 balls, made on a 4-8 table, with clusters of 169 and 141 on regulation championship tables.

WELL COVER IT

It has been suggested to Fanfare that a Faculty-Varsity basketball game be staged sometime after the pressure lets up on the conference title chase. A system of scoring whereby the faculty's baskets would count double or triple if necessary would even up on the speed some of the former stars have lost since their college days. In Principal B. J. Frazier, Athletic Director A. C. Bowers, Coaches L. E. Sharpe, C. B. Lindell, Marvin Winger, Fridolf Lundholm, and Charles Roundy, who also was included, the faculty would be formidable. Proceeds to go toward a faculty dinner for senior major lettermen of all sports, and would give the faculty a chance to give the athletes a sendoff as they bid goodbye to D. H. S. The dinner could also be open to the public at a minimum charge. It does look like a good start on a traditional contest, to be held each year, and perhaps some of the old-timers would surprise us.

GAMES TONIGHT

The usual number of games which are played on Tuesday nights, took a slump this week and there are only four listed on the books for this evening. Lee plays at Compton. Steward goes to Amboy; Lee Center at Paw Paw and Harlem of Rockford to Belvidere.

BEHIND THE GARDEN WALL AT NINE

There's a duel coming up to settle a few differences and Sunday afternoon at a chosen hour Warren Walder and Bill Witzel, representing the Dixon football and basketball teams respectively will challenge the guy who runs along the sidelines in a critical frame of mind. The duel ammunition will be bowling balls—not hurled at each other—but at the ten pins at the Dixon Recreation. Don't be late, boys!

POSTLUDE TO FOOTBALL

When we were small we were the kids old Santa never knew. He never left a present in our stocking. And now that we are out for sports we find the same thing's true. For we're the husky boys who do the blocking.

When stars get loose for 90 yards and cross the goal line standing. The fans applaud and set the bleachers rocking. We wonder if there's some of them that have an understanding. That we helped him just a little with our blocking.

We realize that those long runs make quite a nice sports story. That's why the grid fans to the games are flocking. But wouldn't it be nice if some sport Ed would give some glory. To the forgotten men who do the blocking.

Since football ceased, a funny dream, each night our slumber mars. You'll find the very idea rather shocking. But we'd like to see a game twist teams, each one made up of stars. With not a single man to do the blocking.

The Webster team handed the Monarchs their second defeat, 31 to 23. The Monarchs took a 10-3 lead in the first period and were leading at the half, 14 to 9. However, their defense bogged down in the last half and the Webster squad took a good lead and coasted to victory with Flash Smith scoring 15 points for his team. Kroh led the losers with 8 tallies.

The first game next Monday night will bring together Cooper's Cafe and the Monarchs at 7:30 and at 9 o'clock the Dennis men meet the Webster five.

The drive for the state title for all of the high school teams in Illinois will swing into action with the smaller schools starting the district tournaments on 60 fronts starting February 26. The larger schools postponed their assignments until the regions which open on March 5.

Sectional tournaments are scheduled to start March 12 with the quarter-finals opening March 12 preparatory to the finals March 21. The assignments for this area are as follows:

Three-Sports Man
Red Flanagan was graduated from high school in '35 and played with Belier's I. N. U. and The Soda Grill before joining the present Knacks team. He has also a career as a member of the I. N. U. and James Richards softball team and was a three sports man in high school.

Belows also has a career in softball as a member of the Swissville, Eichler's California Markets and James Richards teams.

Louis (Stroke) Bevilacqua was graduated with sports honors from high school in 1939 and left behind a memorable record in three sports. He played baseball for the Junior American Legion and the Knacks hardball champions of 1939 before going to the Florida State League to pitch for the DeLand club. This spring he goes to Chattanooga, Tenn. Louis has played basketball with the Soda Grill, Nelson and Knacks quints and softball with the Jay's High Life ten.

Lee Center Graduate
Roland (Muggs) Ulrich was graduated from Lee Center high school and is one of the Knacks high scorers this season. He also plays with the Mendota Coca Cola club.

Otto Gehant, another Lee Center graduate, was high scorer in high school for three seasons and plays this year with the Knacks as the same Mendota club to which Ulrich belongs. Next season Otto is planning to attend college.

Ray Temple, a Tampico high school graduate, played baseball and basketball at Illinois Wesleyan and was captain of the cage team in the last year. He has signed a contract with the New York Yankees and will go to the farm team at Norfolk, Va. this spring. The Norfolk team is a member of the famous Piedmont league, a Class B circuit. Last season he played with the Water-ton, N. Y. team, a strong semi-pro outfit and finished the season with a Maryland team in the Eastern Shore League.

Earl (Poogie) Page was graduated from Dixon high school in 1939 and spent last year at Monmouth college. In high school he played football and guard on the cage team. He is a veteran of the Junior American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars baseball

History of Knacks' Cage Team Presents Colorful Background of Local Sports

To Play Here in Benefit Games Friday Night, Win Over Steward In Rochelle League Last Eve

The 1941 edition of the Knacks basketball team which will engage the Oglethorpe Merchants in one of the feature benefit games here Friday night, has a background of history as colorful as anything in local sports.

From colleges and high schools came the cream of the basketballing crop to compose one of the best independent quints in northern Illinois—a troupe of teammates who work and play together with a spirit which matches anything done for "dear old Sixash."

Dixon fans will have their first opportunity to see this team in action here at the high school gymnasium Friday night when the Knacks perform as part of the twin bill being sponsored by the Lee County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the Dixon Evening Telegraph.

Oldest Member of Team
Oldest member of the team, in point of service, is veteran Paul (Peter) Potts, genial guard, who never has a complete string of goose-eggs in his box score even if he has to commit a good-natured foul to break the monotony. However, Paul is one of the team's best long-shot artists and a dependable defense man. Paul began playing independent basketball soon after his graduation from high school in 1933 and started as a member of the DeMolay team of that year. When the DeMolays disbanded, Paul went to the Millway Hatchery and played with them the rest of the season. That year the I. N. U. won the league pennant. Later he played with Belier's championship team and then went to the Knacks. In high school his varied sports career carried him to honors in football, track and basketball. Since that time he has played softball as a member of the Eichler's championship team and his own California Market squad which won the softball title in 1939. He was also a member of the Redmen, a former independent Dixon football squad.

Started in 1934
The Knacks were started in 1934 with Joe Miller as the manager. In that year Belows and Potts played with Belier's team which won the championship managed and coached by Charles Roundy. Roland Ulrich was a member of the Ashton team of the same circuit.

In 1935-36 William (Red) Flanagan joined Belows and Potts on the Belier's team and Ulrich still played with Ashton.

Court Says Alien Statute Nullified Pennsylvania Law

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—The Supreme Court held Monday that passage of the 1940 federal law requiring registration of aliens invalidated a 1939 Pennsylvania alien registration statute.

Justice Black delivered the opinion, which upheld justice department contentions that the regulation of alien registration "is exclusively the concern of the federal government."

Justice Stone wrote a dissenting opinion in which Chief Justice Hughes and Justice McReynolds concurred.

The court refused to review a decision upholding a federal trade commission order directed against alleged misleading advertising of financing interest rates by the General Motors Acceptance corporation.

The company, subsidiary of General Motors, appealed from the second federal circuit court.

Based on Allegations

The commission order was based upon allegations that advertisements misled the buying public into believing that the 6 percent finance cost for General Motors cars, as advertised, amounted to a 6 percent simple interest charge annually on the unpaid balance of an automobile purchased from General Motors. The commission, holding the charges were higher, ordered the company to cease such advertising.

Also, the court refused to reconsider its December 16 decision holding that the regulatory power of the federal government over navigable streams is "as broad as the needs of commerce."

FUNNY BUSINESS

"Gentlemen, since we all came together at the same time, I suggest we start the 'Spare Auto Parts, Inc.'"

More Liberal Old Age Pensions Aim of Several States

Chicago, Jan. 21—(AP)—Under the terms of a bill proposed by a Democratic senator in the Pennsylvania legislature, juke boxes, bingo games and bank nights at the movies would be taxed to provide larger pensions for more persons at a younger age.

The measure would lower the oldsters' assistance age from 65 to 60, and would increase the pension from the present monthly maximum of $30 to $60.

Indiana's lawmakers have been handed bills which ask increased maximum old age pensions to between $40 and $50 the maximum payment now is $30 a month with the average about $18. Other proposals seek a reduction of the waiting period before unemployment compensation can be paid, from two weeks to one, and provide for payments for 20 instead of 16 weeks.

This was welfare ranged alongside the more immediate problems of implementing national preparedness in the consideration of the 43 state legislatures convening early this year.

Liberality Tendency

Despite a multiplicity of issues, some of them described as being of unequal gravity, there was a marked tendency in a number of states to deal more liberally with the elderly and with widowed mothers. Moreover, there were few indications, an Associated Press survey showed, that relief programs as a whole would be drastically curtailed.

Gov. G. W. Wilson of Iowa asked that the state's appropriation for old age assistance be expanded from $7,000,000 a year to $8,500,000.

An executive budget bill set before the Wisconsin chambers recommends that old age and other pensions be increased $2,041,055 for the next two years. Appropriations for the current fiscal biennium are $12,513,945 the total proposed is $14,555,000.

Plans of the Illinois legislature contemplate a reduction of $10,000,000 in relief costs during the coming biennium, due to increased employment made possible by national defense activities.

The gain will be offset, however, by expected increases in old age assistance.

The cost of relief in this biennium—including a $20,300,000 deficiency appropriation—was $92,300,000. Former Gov. John Stelle set the 1941-43 figure at $83,400,000. It was thought that Gov. Dwight Green's announced intention to investigate the relief or-

Brisk Demand for Good Farms Indicated in 1940

St. Louis, Jan. 21—(AP)—A brisk demand for good farms was demonstrated during the past year by the sale of 595 hand-owned farms for approximately $2,100,000. F. W. Niemeyer, general agent of the sixth district Farm Credit Association, reported at the annual board meeting here yesterday.

The district is composed of Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas.

"Farmers are continuing to pay their debts and reduce the ratio of loan delinquency," he said, "93 out of 100 farmers in the district having all the matured installments on their Federal land bank and commissioner loans paid up to date on Dec. 31."

"Most gratifying was an 80 per cent reduction in foreclosures during last year."

Niemeyer reported 1940 marked the peak of short-term credit extended thus far by the Production Credit Associations of the district. The 30,000 farmers who are members of these associations obtained $37,644,000 in farm operating loans, he said.

GREATEST PLAGUES

The Black Death, or bubonic plague, of the 14th century, and the influenza epidemic of 1918 are said to be the two greatest plagues ever to afflict mankind. The former killed an estimated 25,000,000 persons; the latter, 10,000,000.

MORE MASSILLON HONORS

Massillon, O. Paul Brown, newly appointed Ohio State football coach, has no monopoly on the "make Massillon famous" honors. Big Bill Edwards, Western Reserve coach, also comes from this city. Brown has coached Massillon high school teams for the past several years.

TWO MORE KERBOS; WHO CAN BEAT 'EM?

Mangum, Okla.—Jack Kerbo, 18-year-old center on Centralvue high school basketball team, is six feet and seven inches tall. His brother, Bill, is the same height and a cousin, Charles Kerbo, is six feet eight inches.

Springfield Ministers Write Protest to FDR

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—The Ministerial Association of Springfield told President Roosevelt in a letter made public Monday that "there are vast numbers of people who are not heard . . . who are nevertheless under deep conviction that to push this country nearer war is a grave wrong."

The letter adopted unanimously by the association added "it is very easy to get the impression that because these people are not heard, the public sentiment must be all one way."

The association said it felt Roosevelt's recent addresses on foreign policy had been "sincere," and expressed belief the president would welcome the opinions of "cross sections of your fellow citizens."

"There is a great difference," the letter concluded, "between the country going along efficiently in its present channels from what the situation would be, practically, normally, psychologically, actually and in every other respect, than should we be drawn or pushed or maneuvered into what has come to be described as a 'shooting war'. Once guns are fired in anger the pattern is entirely changed and passes beyond control."

FIRST WATER POWER MILL

The first water power mill in America was established at South Berwick, Maine, in 1620, by Ferdinand Gorges, who obtained a grant from England empowering him to develop water power on the land lying between the 40th and 48th latitudes from sea to sea.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"
"INSIDE YOUR CONGRESS"

ROOSEVELT & CHURCHILL

Britain is in the grip of war. Every day her ships and cargoes are being sunk, and every night her cities are being bombed. In this crisis she has conferred upon her prime minister, Winston Churchill, and his cabinet power to act quickly and efficiently. Nevertheless, Mr. Churchill has not asked nor have the British people granted him powers as great as those sought by Mr. Roosevelt in his lease-lend bill. This fact, and it is a fact, should give Americans pause.

Mr. Churchill and his cabinet are subject to be dismissed on twenty-four hours' notice whenever a simple majority of a single House of British legislature becomes dissatisfied with either his policy or his accomplishments. In addition, as he and his cabinet are all members of the House of Commons, they are subject to interrogation at any time.

It would be interesting to hear the way the British Empire would respond if Mr. Churchill were to make a speech in the House of Commons stating he is not satisfied with the power he already has but on the contrary demands practically unlimited personal power to carry economic and military war into every country of the world at his sole discretion, and that when such powers are granted, they must be irrevocable in his hands and beyond the power of the people or Parliament to recall.

Such power, in effect, is what Mr. Roosevelt is asking of the American people. The powers granted him could not be recalled over his veto without a two-thirds vote in both Houses of Congress.

Four hundred and thirty-five members of the House of Representatives might vote unanimously to revoke the powers. Sixty-three Senators might vote to recall them—498 in all. But as Mr. Roosevelt is certain of the votes of 53 Senators, or one more than one-third, the unprecedented powers he asks could neither be recalled nor curtailed. Mr. Roosevelt has never surrendered a single power. Do you want such vast and irrevocable power vested in one man, surrounded and advised by Secretaries, Knox, Stimson and Morgenthau, who would apparently send an American expeditionary force to Europe or Africa if they thought that necessary to prevent British defeat?

But these powers would not be vested in Mr. Roosevelt alone. If he were to die or become unable to act as president, they would fall into the hands of Henry Wallace, or any other person who might become the president of the United States. Whoever that man might be, the power could not be recalled nor curtailed over his veto except by a two-thirds vote in each House of Congress. Many people have confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's handling of foreign affairs, but would they favor these same powers being exercised by Mr. Wallace?

The bill appears to repeal the Johnson Act and all other statutes which now stand in the way of the exercise of these vast powers. Under it, apparently the president could attempt to send American merchant ships, manned by American sailors and conveyed by American warships, through the English Channel to the port of London. On such a voyage, under the laws of war, these ships would be subject to be stopped or sunk by the German and Italian navies. Do the American people want to vest in the hands of a single man as fateful power as that?

Under the terms of the bill, a British cruiser crippled in an engagement on the high seas could seek shelter from its pursuing foe at Pearl Harbor, Honolulu, or the Brooklyn Navy Yard. And it is reasonable to expect that its attackers would follow it, with guns roaring, into American waters. Do the American people want to invite the war to our very shores?

Under the bill the president at his sole discretion could purchase munitions and supplies of war in one foreign country to be shipped to another foreign country, thus employing foreign labor at the cost of American labor. Does labor want him to have this power?

This bill should be debated at length and without intimidation from any source. There is no occasion for reckless haste. American factories are now turning out immense quantities of war supplies for Britain and, according to Congressman Charles S. Dewey of Illinois, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Britain has at least four billion dollars' worth of American investments left with which she can pay for this stream of supplies. There is no possibility that this sum will be exhausted for at least a year. Consequently, any effort on the part of the Administration to further create a crisis psychology to jam the bill through Congress should be resisted, even by those who are wholly sympathetic toward more aid to Britain. It is time to think of our own skins and of American liberties.

If as Mr. Roosevelt says, we believe "in the freedom of expression" to all peoples, including the Hottentots and Whatnots, we should not deny freedom of expression to any American discussing this bill—not even Senator Wheeler.

Another Warship Illinois to Ride Billows Ere Long

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—Another battleship Illinois will ride the waves ere long, successor in name to one of the proudest sea rovers of the old American fleet.

The navy intends to call one of its new men-of-war for the Prairie State, to put the name Illinois on a sea fighter for the first time since the late 80's, the third time in the navy's history.

The new Illinois is one of the ships being built at the Philadelphia navy yard. Whatever role it may have in world events which follow its launching, it inherits a great tradition, of glamor, glory, and usefulness.

Its predecessor and namesake, the old U. S. S. Illinois, was stripped of its guns and fighting armor long ago, but it still has a job—as a floating armory for training naval militia at the New York navy yard.

Before the navy labeled her "no longer capable of warlike service," she had held flagship distinction, he figured twice in naval shows for royalty, and she sailed round the world on the great cruise that signaled the advent of a modernized American navy.

Made Flagship
A 26-gun fighter of 11,552 tons, she was built at Newport News, Va., launched October 14, 1898, and commissioned September 16, 1901. Almost immediately she was designated flagship of a special service squadron formed for the reception of Prince Henry of Germany.

And in 1901-03, the Illinois was flagship in the American squadron which participated in the ceremonies attending the coronation of King Edward VII, grandfather of the present King of England. Then came the presidential review at Hampton Roads, Va., on December 16, 1907, after which the navy's world cruise got under way.

World War Service
The Illinois was given a new task in 1913, carrying midshipmen on their cruises to Europe. She was at the Philadelphia navy yard when America entered the first World war, but was immediately attached to the Atlantic reserve fleet.

Her naval militia job began October 23, 1921, when the navy loaned her to New York state, to be used in training young men for the service. Three years later she was declared unfit for combat, and might have ended her colorful career on the scrap heap had New York not found her useful.

When the navy decided to call a new ship the Illinois, they had to change the name of the old one, so she's now officially the U. S. S. Prairie State. Records dating back to 1864 show an even earlier Illinois. That one was a "screw sloop of war," built at the Portsmouth, N. H. navy yard, but never officially a completed ship. She was condemned and broken up after a few idle years.

Fortney-Kuhn

Miss Rita Fortney, assistant supervisor in surgery at the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital in Dixon, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fortney of Amboy, became the bride of Roy David Kuhn, 310 Everett street, Dixon, son of Mrs. Lee Paul of Brookville. The vows were solemnized Friday evening at the rectory of St. Patrick's Catholic church in Amboy, with the Reverend Robert C. Troy officiating.

The bride was attended by her aunt, Mrs. George Steder of Amboy and George Steder was Mr. Kuhn's best man. Miss Fortney chose marsh rose crepe for her bridal dress with white colored accessories. Rose and sweetpeas formed her shoulder corsage. Mrs. Steder was dressed in lake blue with navy accessories. She also wore a shoulder corsage.

A 6:30 dinner was served to the immediate families at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Burke. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Harvey Steder.

When they left on their honeymoon trip the bride was wearing black velvet with white trim and black accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn will make their home in Dixon, having chosen an apartment at the Kime residence on South Galena avenue.

Mrs. Kuhn was a graduate from the Amboy Township high school with the class of 1933 and from the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital training school for nurses. The bridegroom is employed at the Bonded Service Station, 319 Everett street.
